MAN SHOOT HIMSELF AND WHEN POLICE ARRIVE DEAD BODY IS FOUND IN SHED

Entering a coal shed at the rear of the Marion hotel shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, John Moor, 33 years old, ended his life. The man was seen to enter the shed by Clarence Chandler, a youth residing at the Weber hotel, about five minutes before he committed the rash act. The boy heard the shot and as quickly as possible informed the police department. Sergeant C. P. Fitzgerald and other officers went to the scene in the auto patrol and took the body to the Kirkendall mortuary, where it will be held pending funeral arrangements. The decedent was about 5 feet 8 1/2 inches tall and well built. He was also slightly bald, wore a neat blue suit and a black hat. Moor was a railroad machinist. A mark in his notebook indicated he belonged at Fresno, Cal., and that he was a member of lodge No. 68 of the International Association of American Machinists. He purchased at Reno a ticket for Colorado Springs, Colo., and used it as far as Ogden. He had $13.50 in cash. The wound, inflicted with a .32 caliber revolver, was an inch above the center of the right eye and right ear. He left no note explaining his act.

THE MAN WHO DOES WHAT HE OUGHT TO DO

Rev. Frank Brainard, First Congregational Church.

The man who does what he ought to do, rather than what he may wish to do, and who does it, not grudgingly, not even just courageously, nor better still, just efficiently, but who, crowning it all, does it wholeheartedly; the man who faces the "I ought," unpleasant though it be, disagreeable though it be, repulsive though it be, heart-breaking though it be, who faces it and accepts it, not because he fears, not because he is driven, but because he chooses the thing fraught with right and pain rather than the thing making wrong and ease; the man who sees life in the large, whose vision passes beyond environment, whose values outlast the present, whose interests reach beyond the circle of self to the horizon of humanity, whose shoulders, narrow though they be, with long lever on the fulcrum of the infinite, would dare the burden of a world; the president, with an agony of responsibility in the hour of his nation's crisis, the general, whose hands, for the saving of a nation, are red with the blood of thousands, the soldier in the ranks, wet, hungry, cold, wounded perhaps dying for the home and loved ones, he may never see again; the man in the less glorified battle-ground of daily life, the field, the shop, the mart, the professions, the form, the public office; the man who does what he ought to do, instead of what he may wish to do, and who does it not grudgingly, but wholeheartedly, because it is what he chooses to do, God bless him, and multiply him, and perpetuate him in our homes, in our cities, in our nation and in all the world.

The rail-splitter in the forest; the boy trudging tiredly home with borrowed books; the young lawyer championing his client's rights; the gaunt figure with the eloquent appeal on the hustings; the bowed form on benched knees through long night watches in the White House; the sunken-eyed heart-broken orator, with breaking heart but immortal cheer, at Gettysburg; the silent target for the assassin's bullet, the martyr, beloved of a nation and honored by all the world. All these were one Lincoln.

But he was more than Abraham Lincoln. He was personified that large human

CHURCH DEDICATION ATTENDED BY PEOPLE FROM SALT LAKE AND BY MINISTERS OF CITY

Yesterday was a high day at the new First Christian church, corner of Twenty-fourth and Madison avenue. Seven years of planning and labor on the part of a small group of disciples culminated in the dedication of their handsome new property, which, together with the lot, represents a total investment of $11,000.

The dedicatory services were in charge of the Rev. Charles W. Dean of Denver, Rocky Mountain regional superintendent of missions for the disciples of Christ. The dedicatory addresses of the day were delivered by the Rev. F. W. Burnham president of the American Christian Missionary society of Cincinnati, O., the principal dedicatory address being at the morning hour. Following a brief message by Mr. Dean, on "What Mean Ye by These Stones," Mr. Burnham spoke on "A Vision of Triumph," choosing his theme from "The Return of the Seventy," recorded in the tenth chapter of Luke.

After pointing out that the words of Jesus in this passage indicate his vision of the triumph of Christianity and his joy in finding faithful followers to whom could be entrusted the sacred interests of His Kingdom. Mr. Burnham sketched some of the struggles of the disciples in Ogden whose hopes find realization in the completed structure. He said that unless this church shall have some distinct and vital contribution to make to the sum total of Christian truth and light in this community the organization and the building of another church could not be justified in the presence of the already too much divided forces of Christendom. He then stated that this church would stand in the community for three great ideals, namely:

(1) The Exaltation of Christ.—While recognizing the valuable service of the great leaders and reformers of all Christian history and giving due honor to each for the contribution which he has made, yet it shall be the purpose of this church to exalt the name of Christ to a place of solitary and resplendent glory. The church will wear no name but His. Its members will count themselves learners in His school.

(2) The Authority of His word.—In this household of faith the sacred scriptures shall be the only rule of faith and practice. While each individual shall be at liberty to draw up for himself such statement of his faith as he may choose no man nor body of men manity made up of every type of man that gives himself to the thing he ought to do rather than the thing he may wish to do; not because he fears, or is driven, but because he chooses to do the thing fraught with right and pain rather than the thing making wrong and ease.

OGDEN STAKE HOLDS MOST SUCCESSFUL CONFERENCE

The most successful conference ever held in Ogden, was said of the quarterly conference of the Ogden stake held yesterday and the statement bore much weight for there was only standing room. At the morning and afternoon sessions, Apostle Hyrum M. Smith, president Brigham H. Roberts and Stake President Thomas B. Evans were the principal speakers. President Evans presenting the quarterly report of the stake presidency and the visiting authorities delivering sermons. A musical program that has not been excelled in several years was presented by the Ogden tabernacle choir and soloists, each number being of great appeal to the spiritual being of each member of the congregation. This part of the service was directed by Prof. Joseph Ballantyne, with Prof. Sam F. Whitaker, organist.

The numbers at the morning session were as follows: Organ prelude, "Eventide" (Harker) Sam F. Whitaker. "O Ye Mountains High," Tabernacle choir and congregation. Duet and chorus, "As Pants the Heart," LaVine Petty, Douglas Brian and choir. "Solo and chorus, 'I'll go Where You Want Me to Go,' Annie Williamson and choir.

Duet, "Come Holy Spirit," Annie Williamson and Edward Saunders. Chorus, "Rest," Tabernacle choir. Bishop E. A. Olsen offered the invocation and the President T. B. Evans submitted the quarterly report, after first welcoming the stake members to the conference.

Those who did not attend the morning and evening services at the First Presbyterian yesterday missed a musical treat. The Misses Marie and Helen Hughes and Miss Loretta Lyden gave a beautiful program of praise numbers. Miss Marie Hughes is a harpist of rare ability while her sister, Miss Helen Hughes, is an artist with her violin. Miss Lyden possesses a sweet soprano voice of splendid range. The program at both services follows:

RAILROAD OFFICIALS TESTIFY ON THE COAL BUSINESS

Salt Lake, Feb. 12.—Before the judiciary committee of the Utah senate, H. U. Mudge, president of the Denver & Rio Grande, and Fred Wild, Jr., general freight traffic manager of the same road, appeared to testify in regard to a public utilities commission. President Mudge denied the statement of F. A. Sweet that he had admitted $1.25 was a fair rate on coal from the Utah mines to the Salt Lake market.

Mr. Wild said the freight rate on coal to Salt Lake and Ogden is identical and, if coal is being sold at 60 cents to 75 cents higher in Ogden than in Salt Lake, something other than freight rates was responsible.

No one has charged the freight rate.

OGDEN HIGH GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

The present week will be a busy one for the Ogden High school basketball team, as the boys have games scheduled with the Box Elder County High school team, Thursday night, and the South Cache High school team, Saturday night. They will practice daily for these events and expect to redeem their defeat by South Cache early in the season and to give the Brigham City five at hard contest. These games will be played at the Ogden High school.

Saturday night, the locals were defeated by the Davis county team, by the score of 20 to 20.

FIREMEN CALLED TO THE DEE-ECCLES

The residence of C. H. Benson, 2635 Washington avenue, was slightly damaged yesterday morning, when the roof was set afire by sparks from a defective chimney.

At 2:50 a. m. today the department was called to the Dee-Eccles building, which was filled with smoke from a rubbish fire in a rear room. This blaze extinguished before any material damage was done. The fire, it is thought, started from a lighted cigarette.

CARRYING IT TOO FAR

Mr. Curran and Mr. McMann spent their Saturday half holiday in artistic pursuits. Among the objects examined was a new public building. The feature of this building that appealed most strongly to Mr. Curran was an inscription cut into a huge stone. "What does these letters mean, Tim?" "That," replied the cultured Mr. McMann, "stands for 1898."

"Oh," Mr. Curran replied. Then, after a thoughtful pause, he added: "Don't yez think, Tim, that they're overdoing this spellin' reform a bit?" —New York Times.
